ORDER COMES BACK TO TULSA

Ten Dead Whites and Ninety Slain Negroes is Latest Count—State Troops Patrol City and Devastated "Little Africa"—Care of Thousands of Blacks Next Problem.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Tulsa, Okla., June 2:—Business was resumed as usual in Tulsa today following a night of quiet. The militia still paced the streets and martial law continued in effect, but there was no disorder, but business places which were barred and bolted yesterday were open and people appeared on the streets as though Tulsa's day of terror had never happened.

It was still impossible to gain an accurate estimate of the dead this morning. Adjutant General Barrett stated that the best figures he could obtain were 100 dead. Ten white persons are dead and the total of negroes dead is about ninety, according to the military count.

There were no further outbreaks of the race riot which had raged unchecked during the morning hours yesterday and which was only put down by the arrival of the national guard from outside cities.

State troops, acting under the direction of Adjutant General Barrett patrolled the entire city during the night. Pedestrians without passes and motor cars, except official vehicles were barred from the street between midnight and six o'clock this morning. All street car service was discontinued throughout the night.

Theatres and places of amusement were closed early, as were a majority of drug stores, soda fountains and cafes.

A check up this morning showed ten white men to be dead and and six of thirty-five wounded in hospitals to be in a critical condition. The bodies of fifteen negroes were held in various morgues. Other bodies were brought to the morgues this morning from the ruins of the black belt where they had lain untouched since yesterday morning. Over seventy wounded negroes are reported in hospitals today and more than twenty were not expected to live for twenty-four hours.

The cordon of troops thrown around the desolate region which was once "little Africa," perhaps the most concentrated and wealthy negro settlement in the southwest before it was levelled to the ground Wednesday morning by fire started by the white invaders, continued to do picket duty.

The district was a heap of blackened ruins, into which none except soldiers and police were permitted. The district can never be restored. It will have to be entirely reconstructed.

Adjutant General Barrett today considered the advisability of pitching semi-permanent tents in the negro district as soon as the wreckage can be cleared up, to serve as homes for the negroes now herded into convention hall and other buildings, and quartered at the baseball park.

More than 3,000 of these negroes taken prisoners yesterday still were being fed by relief agencies headed by the Red Cross today. During the night and today their numbers continued to increase as little bands of fugitives, learning all danger was past, began to straggle back into the city. Their meals were served at the fair grounds.

Information was received from a number of towns near this city today that bands of negroes from a score up to 200 in size, who had fled from the city during the hours of terror, were being cared for.

These were started back for Tulsa this morning under assurances that there would be no molestation.

Dick Rowland, the negro youth whose arrest was the cause of the outbreak, was not to be arraigned today, it was stated by police officials. Rowland during the rioting was spirited away to safety and his place of confinement was still a secret today.

Rowland does not face any charge, but was being held by city police for investigation on complaint of Mrs. Sarah Paige, a white elevator operator, who said Rowland attempted to attack her.

A NEW FACTORY

To Be Located in Saugerties—Manufactures Kitchen Ware.

Saugerties is to have another industry, a wire kitchen ware manufactory, to be located on the old Genthner property, which has been purchased by U. Grant Teetsell of Tarrytown, a former resident of Saugerties. Mr. Teetsell will have a new building erected on the property, and when the factory is in operation expects to employ forty hands. Mr. Teetsell and family will reside in the former Benjamin M. Brink farm at Katsbaan.

Almost Hung Himself.

What came near being a fatality Tuesday afternoon was enacted in the yard of Louis Diel on Main street, Saugerties, when his grandson, "Nielie," who makes his home with him, narrowly escaped death from hanging. The boy with others were playing and "Nielie" either jumped or fell from the fence with a rope about his neck and there hung until rescued. Dr. Diedling who attended the boy said if he had been left hanging two minutes more life would have been extinct.

Big Truck Hit Auto.

It was reported to the police Wednesday that a Spring Valley ice truck had struck an auto owned by Mr. Donovan of Barclay Heights, Saugerties, at Football avenue and Gage street.

SOLDIER BONUS SOON GOES OUT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, June 2.—The bonus commission is ready to begin the first step in the distribution of the bonus to residents of the state who served in the world war. Application blanks will be distributed to various posts of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars within two or three days. It was said at the offices of the commission Wednesday.

American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars posts will receive the applications and distribute them. Residents of the state who are outside of the state must apply directly to the bonus commission here for an application. Beneficiaries of deceased soldiers will also make application direct to the commission as will committees for insane soldiers.

Under a ruling of the attorney general, only those veterans who were actual residents of the state when the bonus law was voted, November 2, 1920, will be entitled to receive the money. Persons in Federal service are not affected by the ruling.

Nurses as well as soldiers and sailors are eligible for the bonus, but no one who ranked above captain in the army or marine corps, or lieutenant, senior grade, in the navy will receive it, provided they served longer than two months and were honorably discharged between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918.

The bonus to be paid is $10 per month for each month of service, but no person is to receive more than $250.

ROSENDALE BUS

Lacks Room For Its Patrons, Declares One of Them.

Rosendale, June 1, 1921.

Editor The Freeman:

It is no doubt just and right that Kingston being the only city in the county, and the seat of government, should stand in loco parentis to the smaller communities or as it were a sort of beadle to distribute their portions and tell them what they want. This is as it should be, and yet that unthinkable malefactor—Rosendale Oliver, just emerging from a long period of profound depression, and having already had his portion, has the unparalleled insolence to ask for more. What ingratitude? It is possible that when he sees entering the city from every other direction broad beautiful avenues adorned by spacious arches inviting the citizens of other communities to its hospitalities he may for the moment forget that he also has his boulevard, and while he is not permitted to have a convenient line of transportation from his own village he should always gratefuly bear in mind that one passes through it, and that if he is active enough he may get a chance to stand or ride in on its fender.

Sometime perhaps Oliver may rise, but it will not be to call the authorities of Kingston blessed.

A CONSTANT RIDER.

YE PRINTERS' HOLIDAY.

Freeman Force Will Take Saturday Afternoon Off.

Saturday of this week The Freeman will be printed and delivered two hours earlier than the usual Saturday time. The reason is that the entire office force, 58 persons is going to take a half holiday and enjoy a picnic and dinner. The last form will be closed at noon and papers will be ready for carriers an hour later. Those who do not get their papers before 1:45 will not get them at all, as both the Broadway and Fair street offices will be closed for the day at that time.

True Japanese Story Tomorrow.

The Federation of Women's Clubs invites the public to come to the chapel of the First Dutch Church tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock to hear Mr. Fisher, just returned from Japan, tell of "The Japan of Today and Tomorrow." Mr. Fisher is a good speaker on any subject and speaks with especial authority on this one. All members of the Federation are asked to be present promptly at 2:30 o'clock for the business session and election of officers, particularly as the Federation has been asked to assume a certain piece of civic betterment work during the summer.

Idle Hour Inn Opened.

The Idle Hour Inn on the Ashokan boulevard near West Hurley which was opened to the public for the season by Bruno Diese, who has purchased the property, on Sunday was visited on that day and on Decoration Day by many people, quite a number coming from Kingston. Mr. Diese has greatly improved the property and has engaged a good orchestra for regular weekly dances every Saturday evening, and there will also be music on Sundays. The large room for dancing can be had at any time on notification.

"The Hoodoo" Tonight.

The first performance of the three-act farce, "The Hoodoo," will be given by the young people of the Junior Auxiliary of St. John's Church, and their friends, this evening at 8 o'clock at the Parish House on Wall street. The farce will be repeated tomorrow evening.

Albany's Milk Price Lower.

Retail prices of milk in Albany were reduced one cent a quart June first. Quarts were reduced from fourteen to thirteen cents and pints from eight to 7½ cents.

TWO JUDGES TO BE ELECTED

George A. Glynn, chairman of the state Republican committee, will soon call the committee together to fix the number of delegates to the judiciary convention to be called this fall to nominate party candidates for the supreme court bench. It is expected the meeting will be before June 28, the first date under which designating petitions can be circulated.

Under the repeal of the direct primary law delegates chosen at the primary election September 13 will be empowered to select the candidate. It has been suggested that the state committee limit the delegates to one from each assembly district, and an additional one for each 2,000 votes cast last November. It also has been proposed that three delegates from each assembly district make up the nominating convention.

Voters of the third judicial district must choose successors to two supreme court justices. The term of William P. Rudd of Albany will expire January 1 and a successor must be chosen to Joseph Rosch of Liberty, appointed by Governor Miller to complete the year's work left by the promotion of Emory A. Chase of Catskill to the Court of Appeals.

Between September 20 and 27 Judge Clearwater, chairman of the Republican third judicial district committee, will call a convention of the primary elected delegates, in conformity with the provisions of the new primary law.

It is understood, says the Knickerbocker Press, Justice Rudd will retire from the bench. The Albany organization, however, is not united on the candidate. County Judge George Addington has the support of a large faction, while Newton B. Vanderzee, former surrogate, Harold Alexander, former county district attorney, and Rollin B. Sanford, former congressman, have boosters for the post.

It is understood Justice Rosch, who is treasurer of the judicial committee, will be renominated.

DR. STRONG REMEMBERED.

Former Pastor Here Presented With Watch In Plainfield.

The Rev. Philip B. Strong, a former pastor of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church, and now located in Plainfield, N. J., last Friday evening was presented with a handsome watch by the members of his Bible class. The Plainfield Courier News in speaking of the presentation says:

A delightful reunion of the Strong Bible Class took place Friday evening at the new home of Dr. Strong on Myrtle avenue. It was in the nature of a surprise house-warming and was attended by from 75 to 100 members of the Bible Class formerly led by Dr. Strong.

During the evening Dr. Strong was presented with a handsome Swiss watch of green gold, with a watch chain and pen-knife to match. The gift was a complete surprise to Dr. Strong and he showed his deep appreciation in a gracious speech of thanks in which he said that next to his Bible and the affection of his friends he would treasure it always among his most valued possessions.

A committee of the class also exhibited to the members a Sheffield silver vase which is to be presented to the German Reformed Church where the class held all its meetings and listened to the inspiring and highly instructive lectures by its teacher.

Dr. Strong's friends were greatly impressed with the attractiveness of his new home, which many of them visited for the first time. The cataloguing and listing of his large library have just be completed. The evening was delightfully spent and the large company of friends left wishing Dr. Strong happiness and success in his new work.

While Dr. Strong now supplies pulpits, he specializes in interpretative Scripture recitations, lectures and story sermons.

Constitutional Amendment Meeting.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, June 2.—The first public meeting scheduled by the judiciary convention of 1921, of which Judge Cuthbert Pound is chairman, will be held in New York city on June 9, at 10:30 o'clock, at the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, 42 West 44th street. MRS. NOTT PLEADS GUILTY OF MURDER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Bridgeport, Conn., June 2.—Backed to the wall by the overwhelming evidence against her, livid with fear of fresh exposures of her clandestine love, and her mental and physical strength completely shaken, Mrs. Ethel Hutchins Nott changed her plea from not guilty to guilty today and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Her "guilty" plea was to the crime of second degree murder. Together with her lover, Elwood Wade, the young milk dealer, she beat, cut, shot and hacked her husband to death and then put the body in a trunk, after telling her two children to turn on the pianola, to keep the noise of the gruesome work from reaching their ears. Wade was recently hanged for the crime.

DOORN DISLIKES FORMER KAISER

People Not Pleased By Walls And Gates And Destruction of Trees —Visitor Failed To Get a Photograph.

(By Robert Poulaine, Staff Correspondent of the I. N. S. and The Petit Journal of Paris in Holland.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Doorn, June 2.—"Passport, mijnheer?" were the first words I heard in this little Dutch town while on my way to attempt to get a glimpse of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm. They were uttered by two policemen dressed in Dutch uniforms, but who strangely resembled the German type of police officer.

After a careful scrutiny of my passport one of the policemen turned to me and asked "Journalist?" "No, publicist," was the reply.

In answer to another query I explained that a journalist wrote articles in newspapers while a publicist writes books. I was allowed to proceed toward the ex-kaiser's castle although a sharp watch was kept on me and the camera I was carrying.

I had been told that it was practically impossible to get anywhere near the former ruler of Germany, but I decided I would try my luck. I reached the monumental gate of the castle where I was again held up by a German looking Dutch Dutch policeman. Hurriedly I scribbled a few words and asked one of the keepers to carry it to Marshal von Gontard, the ex-kaiser's aide de camp. A few minutes later I found myself strolling down through the magnificent avenues of the park surrounding the castle.

Marshal von Gontard received me and immediately pointed out to me that the former kaiser could not receive anyone at present on account of the recent death of his wife. But I was told that if I wanted to see Wilhelm without speaking to him I should be around at 8 o'clock in the morning.

I had been in the house but a few minutes, but in that time I noticed that authentic French Gobelin tapestries hung on the walls and that a big bust of Frederick the Great by a French sculptor adorned the wall.

The next morning at 8 o'clock sharp I took up a waiting position near the garden wall. I had taken my camera with me. A few minutes later a shrill whistle rang out and Dutch police began closing in around the garden and two, of them made a bee line for me, but only stood by and did not interfere, then two men appeared in the garden, the ex-kaiser and his aide de camp. I prepared my camera for a snap and just the very moment I had the strollers carefully focussed a fat Dutch hand closed over my lens and held the machine tight. All I could do was to gaze at the two men walking in the garden. They were less than twenty yards from me.

The ex-kaiser today is a changed man. He no longer wears that look of severity that formerly characterized him and has given up waxing his mustache. He has the air of a happy-go-lucky man. He carries a heavy white walking stick and wears a heavy Norfolk tweed suit and big, high-legged brown boots. Daily he makes the same trip around the gardens watching and talking to his gardeners and the builders who are erecting outhouses.

As discreet as are the people of Doorn they often make remarks which show what their feelings are toward their unwelcome guest. They consider that the ex-kaiser surrounds himself with far too many walls and gates. But that which hurts them most is to see the wanton destruction of the beautiful trees in the park, Wilhelm himself often helping cut them down.

Returning to his apartments about nine o'clock in the morning the ex-kaiser sits himself upon his study to read and write. After lunch he takes another stroll around the grounds.

Since the death of his wife the ex-kaiser received no one except his aide de camp. Events in his former monarchy interest him but little and he would be content to live on undisturbed, as at present according to views expressed by members of his immediate entourage.

Missionary Society Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church will be held in the church parlors on Friday of this week at three o'clock. The hostesses are Mrs. M. REFORMATORY NOW FOR DEFECTIVES

The Eastern New York Reformatory at Napanoch which by an act of the legislature has been transformed as an institution for the care of mental defectives, which law became effective June 1, will house defectives selected from the inmates in Sing Sing, Clinton, and other of the state prisons. With the removal of the sixty prisoners on July 31 the reformatory ceased after twenty years to be a penal institution. The last of the prisoners were transferred to the Elmira reformatory. The Napanoch institution was was ordered closed as a reformatory because of a shortage of prisoners. For several years it had taken care of the overflow from Elmira and at times before the world war when George Deyo was the warden or superintendent he had the care of from four to six hundred, mostly from the western part of the state. It was built by Sing Sing prisoners and was originally intended to be a prison. When it was completed, however, the state prison department turned it over to the managers of Elmira reformatory and erected a new prison at Comstock.

IN GLOVE STYLES

White Glace Kids Are Ignored by the French Women.

Taste Turns Toward Suede in Pearl Gray and Light Beige in Variety of Tones.

An amusing fact, despite the prevalent belief that America looks to Paris for fashion hints, is the complete absence in the wardrobe of any well-dressed Frenchwoman of the ubiquitous white glace kid glove of America. Glace kid gloves are only worn in Paris when they are black and of gauntlet mousquetaire or 20-button cut, and these as well as evening gloves, of any cut or color, have been sacrificed to the prevailing vogue of enormous cabochon rings.

In place of white gloves, which always increase the apparent size of the hands and are so frequently incongruous with the remainder of the toilette, the Frenchwoman's taste instinctively turns toward the lovely suede gloves in pearl-gray and light beige, in a variety of tones, each one only removed from another in a varying degree.

Practically all the chic gloves developed in color are in suede and have very fine stitchings in self-tone, black suede being peculiar to mourning in France. The popular lengths are gauntlet and mousquetaire, the latter sometimes having such intriguing details as scalloped or pointed tops and narrow bands or motifs of cut steel bead embroidery. For an example, black glace kid gloves are embroidered with a fairly open triangle of cut steel beads, quite close to the scalloped edge. Another pair shows the steel bead embroidery in diamond shape on the back of the hand. Worn with these gloves was a small hat of white leather embroidered with the same pattern in jet beads.

The gauntlet glove lends itself more readily to variation in that it can be amazingly lined and edged. When you line a beige suede glove with black moire and edge the same with a very narrow but rich silver galloon you have a chic accessory to the simple black dress which is the rage of the moment. The color of the lining is by no means limited to black, because you may find beige lined with rose, green and rust; pearl gray lined with peacock blue, and black glace lined with rust, or with gold and white brocade, or with gold cloth.

SWEATER BLOUSE, SHADE HAT

The summer costume of sweater blouse and shade hat is charming when developed in jade. The hat, of jade straw, is trimmed with large daisies.

MANY STYLES OF FOOTWEAR

Gorgeous Brocaded Black Satin and Variety of Other Slippers to Please All Tastes.

Seldom since the Middle Ages when shoes had pointed toes so long that often they were looped up and fastened at the knee has footwear assumed so many and varied modes. It would seem that the designers had ransacked their brains to produce unusual and charming effects in shoes and slippers.

Gorgeous brocaded evening slippers in vivid tangerine fashioned in sandal effect, with high thin French heels and straps which fasten with jeweled buckles; or metallic brocaded slippers with low heels just like those worn by children, and with straps of the brocade; or slippers of ruby or French blue velvet, for strong colors are for the nonce preferred to black, all may be seen displayed in the footwear section of the various stores and shops.

Black satin slippers with green satin heels and jade green buttons are in vogue while for sports wear red and [illegible] splendid, fringed tongues which pass over the tops of such slippers and down the front being considered very smart. Other sport combinations consist of white buckskin with brown or red calf straps and strappings. Really the new spring shoes rival the new spring millinery in interest.

So take it all in all, one can readily see that quite as much attention is being paid at present to the pedal extremities as there is to the head.

Varied Hat Styles.

To attempt to describe the prevailing vogue in hats is next to impossible. Crowns and brims are high and low, narrow and wide. Trimmings are much as you desire to make them. Materials cover a wide range.

Wit and Wisdom.

Wit and wisdom differ. Wit is upon the sudden turn, wisdom is in bringing about ends.—Selden.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

COPYRIGHT BY WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION

THE RED SQUIRREL.

"I would like to tell my own story," said the Red Squirrel. "And my own story is a true story. It is a story of the ways of the Red Squirrel family.

"Now I like to have a little different style of dress in the summer than in the winter.

"In the winter I have small tufts of fur on my ears which I haven't in the summer. They are like earlaps and they keep me warm.

"I don't change the color of my suit, for I can never find anything I like better. And if I did, I am sure I wouldn't change, for I would be quite hopelessly out of style then.

"I'm not a slave to fashion or to style, but I like to dress like the other members of the family. Just as a boy doesn't want to wear skirts and a girl doesn't want to wear suits, I wouldn't like to change either. I am very fond of my reddish suit. It suits me well!

"Last autumn when the moonlight nights were with us, as moonlight nights sometimes are, I used to give fine nutting parties. What nuts we did gather! And then we put the nuts away for bad days in the winter, under an old log at the foot of our home tree.

"Fine Nutting Parties."

"I like the day time best of all, but on a moonlight night it is fun once in awhile to have a party, and it is especially nice when it is a nut-gathering party.

"We are about half the size of the gray squirrel but we don't care to be so big.

"We like trees better than anything else—except nuts. And we have a fine time rushing from tree to tree.

"We not only care to rush from one tree to another, but we like to be about all winter, too. When it is a very bad day we stay indoors just as most creatures would do, but we wouldn't sleep all winter as so many creatures do, and even as our own relatives so often do, as we would consider that to be a waste of time.

"Dear me, dear me, we wouldn't do that for anything! We like to be about too much. We're too fond of frolic and games, of eating and of scolding and chatting.

"Imagine a whole winter without a chance to scold! It would be a horrible idea. But as far as we are concerned it will never be anything else but an idea, for we won't do any differently from the way we have been doing all these years, and the way the family has always done.

"We like to eat the seeds out of cones and we like many kinds of fruits as well as nuts.

"In the winter we have tunnels which we have made ourselves through the snow, and we go through these tunnels to some of our extra storerooms, and from one storeroom to another.

"We have fine nests of twigs and leaves and lined with mossy bark.

"The little squirrels keep coming to the nests through the summer, as they think that one of the finest things in the world is to happen to be a red squirrel.

"We can talk and scold, and we can sing, oh yes, we can sing!

"We have some quite lovely notes and we like to sing songs of the springtime.

"Sometimes we keep mushrooms in our winter storehouses, for we like to have plenty of food during the season when food is hardest to get.

"We're smart in the way we fix up our storehouses. And we know the mushrooms which aren't poisonous, too!

"We're very bad, though.

"Yes, in spite of all our good qualities, we have many bad ones. Or rather, I should say, we have one great big fault.

"We eat the eggs of birds, and there is nothing much more wicked than that.

"Yes, that is what we do, too. You see I am telling all of the Red Squirrel ways.

"But we are nice in many other ways. I hope you'll all agree to that!"

And After That?

"Next boy!" exclaimed the teacher. "Can you give a simile to the word 'maiden'?"

"Yes, miss," responded Johnny Summers. "A maiden is like cider."

"Very good, Johnny. You see, boys," explained the teacher, who was of uncertain age and irascible disposition, "Johnny means that a maiden is sweet like cider."

"Yes," broke in Johnny, "and grows sour with old age."

All Must Stand Together.

Once we realize that we are all one, working together for the good of all; that each of us finds his prosperity and salvation in the advancement of all, then the whole business, as well as each individual, takes a distinct step forward.—Joseph H. Appel.

TEAR UP FAMED COBBLEWAY

First Pavement Trod by Warbound Yanks in France Is About to Undergo Repairs.

The cobblestone roadways of the quays of Brest, France, are being repaired. Veteran cobblestones that felt the tread of armies from a new land [illegible] upon them the [illegible] of [illegible] from the country beyond the Rhine as they worked and watched these same new armies [illegible] are passing into the discard. Long and well they have served their time, giving place to new and younger ones which are being laid by men as old as the service of those others.

Not much sentiment about cobblestones, think the old men of Brest as they dig them up and toss them contemptuously aside for the newer and less worn ones, yet back in America the cobblestones of Brest will linger long in the memory of almost 2,000,000 men.

The cobblestones of Brest offered to countless men of the new American armies their first march on the soil of France. What doughboy will ever forget them as descending from the steamer with heavy pack and rifle, he stumbled and clattered across them? As they were the first of French soil to be beneath his feet, so were they the last, as with victory in his kit, with the mud of the Argonne still on his shoes, he slipped gleefully over them to the waiting transport and home.

Worn smooth by army trucks and the tramping of men, the old stones have done their bit. The only echo of those other days that has come to them has been in the trucks of the American Red Cross, which continue still to roll from cargo boat to warehouse carrying supplies that the people of Europe might live.

Poisoned by Spider Bite.

Even the true tarantula is scarcely more venomous than the spider, of which Dr. J. T. Turpin of Esmeralda, Coahuila, Mexico, surgeon of the Sierra Mojada mines, writes to the Journal of the American Medical association.

"The spider that I have known as a poisonous one is found in many places in southwest Texas and northern Mexico. It is small and black, with a white cross on the back. The bite is distinctly painful and produces swelling. The spot bitten is generally so small that it is hardly noticeable the next day. After the first hour there is no noticeable local symptom, but within a short time after the bite there is intense pain in the chest, palpitation of the heart and difficulty in breathing.

"I was the victim of such a bite and I have seldom had more severe pain. I have never thought myself in more danger of death than I did during the two days when I was ill, during which I felt it necessary to take nearly a grain of morphine with atropin.

"None of my other cases seemed as severe as was my own, but several patients were quite sick for two days."

English Strolling Players

Ten strolling players—six women and four men—are traveling the highways and byways of England carrying a theater neatly packed up.

They represent the Arts League of Service, one of the objects of which is to take art in every form into the heart of rustic life. The players travel in easy stages of about ten miles a day by motor lorry and use local halls where possible, but sometimes play in the open air. The lorry's acetylene headlights, they find, make excellent "limes."

"We put up at very varied places," one of the party told a reporter. "One night we are the guests of the local squire and the next, perhaps, we are enjoying the hospitality of a miner's family."

The programs consist of three short plays together with songs and dances. The scheme is beginning to be self-supporting.

Canada's Auto Industry.

A preliminary survey of the automobile industry for the calendar year of 1920 has been completed by the Dominion bureau of statistics. Three different sections cover automobiles, accessories and repairs, respectively. The capital invested in the industry totals $57,000,000, of which Ontario accounts for more than $45,000,000, with a total of 640 out of the 1,236 plants throughout the Dominion. The total number of employees is 13,064, with a payroll of over $15,000,000. In 1919 there were 61,257 touring cars manufactured in Canada with a value of over $52,000,000. Trucks numbered 2,227, with an aggregate value of [illegible].

Delaware River Power Plan

Announcement of a proposed plan to develop over a half million kilowatts in water power on the Delaware river, at a total cost estimated at 200 million dollars, appears in a recent issue of Electrical World. Active work will be commenced as soon as authorization is received from the federal water power commission. The plan calls for the construction of four dams with an average head of 90 feet. A steam power plant with a capacity of one hundred thousand kilowatts will be erected somewhere in New Jersey in order to supplement the hydroelectric plant during seasons of low water.

Surprising.

"It's surprising."

"What is?"

"How many bad things the neighbors' children do which their parents are sure they wouldn't do."—Detroit Free Press.

Study of "Instinct."

It is a matter of some dispute just to what extent the actions of animals are determined by pure unreasoning instinct. It has been stated that a frog will snap at any small moving object regardless of its character, and of hunger or satiety. Some experiments seem to indicate that the frog is capable of greater discriminations than has been credited to him. Thus, for example, a frog was offered hairy caterpillars, which it promptly seized, and with equal promptness spit out again. But after about four or seven such injudicious attempts the frog had learned his lesson, and thereafter refused similar fare. In another experiment earthworms were so connected with a source of electricity that the frog received a shock on touching the worm. The frog duly dropped the prey, and showed no sign of discomfort. However, he refused for seven days to touch another earthworm. Similarly, the frog could be taught to avoid worms in which oil of cloves had been spread, although each "doctored" prey was not spit out, but only discarded.

Keep Bandages Handy.

A box of bandages should be kept handy in every household in case of accident. These can easily be made. Tear them from strong cotton cloth, unhemmed, and roll them tightly, making separate rolls of varying widths. Sterilize them by placing them in the oven, and then store them in a fruit jar.

LOSING ITS SWEETNESS.

Manufacturing confectioners are complaining because they find themselves stocked with goods manufactured when sugar cost more than it does now, and they call the business of putting 30-cent sugar in 20-cent candy a "tragedy." The inability of candy manufacturers to forecast correctly the price movement of sugar, they say, threw the candy industry dangerously near bankruptcy. In that respect the candy industry is not different from any other industry in America, each of which is going through the process of readjustment in the course of which it is suffering not only from prospective but actual losses. The average American feels little sympathy with the candy manufacturers. He recalls the time not long ago when he could not get sugar except at extortionate prices because the candy men had it all. And the candy men sold inferior qualities of sugar at higher prices than the refiners could charge for their best grades. Somebody in official life decided that it was not wise to allow either the candy or the big canning interests to suffer because of the sugar shortage, so there was plenty of sugar for both industries to use and when so used the products were passed along to the public at extortionate prices. The candy men and the big canners were having their hey-day at the expense not only of the consumer of their products but also at the expense of the householder who was compelled to lose the fruit usually canned at home at a fraction of the cost of the product of manufactories. Being thus doubly favored these interests finally became victims of their own greed, because of which the average householder whom they compelled to suffer is inclined to give three hearty and prolonged cheers. Like most regulation during the war, the government regulation of sugar overlooked the human element. While in theory it was perfect, in practice it was disgraceful. Only the regulators were satisfied or benefited.

THE ANGLO-JAPANESE PACT.

The London Spectator declares that if England went to war with the United States to aid Japan the British empire would be "blown to smithereens," for Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Canada would at once take the side of the white race against the yellow. Undoubtedly they would at least set up shop for themselves and tell the crazy mother country to go to ruin without them. Undoubtedly they would also come to the aid of the United States if they saw any real danger of its passing under Asiatic domination, for their interests are identical with those of our Pacific coast in this connection, and they already claim more rights than California does in the matter of legislating to exclude the Japanese and other yellow races.

Nevertheless they approve of the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese treaty, regarding it as localized to the Far East and as a useful measure for the protection of India. But, in consequence of the anti-British propaganda in the United States in this connection, they want certain things clearly understood. When the treaty was last renewed a formal note was attached to it in which the Japanese government stated its recognition of the special relations existing between the two great branches of the English-speaking race and agreed to the British exception in favor of America. Now the premier of South Africa calls for more than this, favoring renewal of the treaty only if America can be satisfied that "no harm to her interests could follow." The premier of Australia also holds that renewal must be subject to the approval of American opinion. The repeated charge that the Anglo-Japanese treaty binds Great Britain to take up arms for Japan if the latter goes to war with the United States is obviously absurd. England does not wish to commit suicide.

LACKING JUDGMENT

President Harding's proposed promotion to lieutenant colonel in the regular army of Major Robert G. Peck has raised opposition not only among members of the Thirty-fifth Division who served in France but among many other military men. When Major Peck rode up in a limousine to meet the Thirty-fifth Division as it was emerging from a five days' continuous battle in the Argonne, he inspected the Division and then reported back to headquarters that it "looked like a National Guard Division, which it is." He took no account, apparently, of the fact that the division had been in the thick of one of the world's mightiest battles and was bordering on a state of exhaustion. All he saw was a coating of mud, unbuttoned coats, untidiness, soldiers minus complete equipment. Aside from an intended slur on the National Guard there was an implied slur on the men as soldiers. It would be interesting to know whether Major Peck ever reached a point nearer the fighting line than the limousine was able to carry him for his inspection of the Thirty-fifth Division. If so, what were his criticisms on trench life, mud, military equipment and human anatomy both broken by enemy shellfire? Certainly such things must have looked unsoldierly to a man of Major Peck's delicate sensibilities. A man of such sensitive feelings must have suffered at least from nausea. Perhaps he still is nauseated, in which case the army is no place for him as long as soldiers are trained for fighting. A man with good judgment would take in consideration the conditions from which the fighting Kansas-Missouri division had just emerged before making a criticism like that of Major Peck. A man without good judgment has no place in directing the operations of men whose business it is to fight. How should the Thirty-fifth Division have behaved under fire to insure an appearance afterward that would meet with the Peck approval? How would he act if called on to fight?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. How far can the skunk throw its fluid?

This fluid is stored in two ducts below the tail which serves—when lifted with a certain motion—to contract the ducts automatically and eject their contents, somewhat as a rubber bulb will expel liquid under pressure. The spray will go from thirteen to sixteen and a half feet. The tail is not soiled by this process, it only acts as a screen to mask the skunk's battery.

2. How do small fish like minnows get into a small pool which only fills up after rain or snow, and has no running water to feed it?

The only possibility is where the pool has been filled through the overflow of a stream or brook, which might carry fish with it into a basin that temporarily became a pool.

3. What is the average length of the bob-white's life?

All wild birds run such chances of tragic death that nobody can estimate an "average" life span. Local conditions of weather, natural enemies, hunting laws, and food supply all affect the birds. In a rigorously protected region it might be possible to use aluminum anklets of the American Bird Banding Association, and by keeping track of individuals through a series of years, arrive at some general conclusions on the species.

I Will Pay $10,000 For The Best Thoughts on One of My Problems

Thos A Edison

IN 1851, Ralph Waldo Emerson said: "Could I only have music on my own terms, whenever I wished the ablution and inundation of musical waves, that are a bath and a medicine."

Emerson spoke the thoughts of millions, and voiced a need of all humanity.

It is obvious that the phonographic reproduction of music affords the only means of providing music of practically every variety, whenever and whenever it is desired; without this means, even those who live in the great centers of music can hear it only at conventional hours—and, then, not always the kind of music they most need and desire.

To make the phonographic reproduction of music serve the need expressed by Emerson, it is necessary that the reproduction shall preserve—undiminished and undistorted—the true beauties of the original music. The greatest shortcoming of the phonograph has been its lack of realism. It is this shortcoming which I have sought to remove. The result is a degree of realism in our new phonograph, which is baffling to even the most expert ears, when direct comparison is made between living singers or instrumentalists and the reproduction or Re-Creation of their work by our new instrument.

Were Emerson alive today, I feel that our new phonograph would be accepted by him as a satisfactory answer to the need which he expressed. At any rate, the [illegible] work, which we have been [illegible] indicates that the well [illegible] and [illegible] benefits of music can be derived, in full measure, from the proper use of this new instrument.

Psychologists, physicians, and other scientists appreciate that our object is to provide music of the best sort, under conditions that will insure the largest benefits. The new phonograph, which we have developed, is merely the instrumentality by which I am endeavoring to place truly fine music at the command of every household.

A great many people have said that they regard this new instrument as the best phonograph in existence. While such statements are naturally gratifying to me, I find that the importance of our work in the field of music is somewhat obscured by the fact that so many people continue to think of this new instrument merely as a phonograph. They may think of it as the best phonograph—but it still is only a phonograph to them.

I want a phrase, which will emphasize that our new instrument is not a mere machine, but that it is an instrumentality by which the true beauties and the full benefits of music can be brought into every home.

The phrase should not contain more than four or five words. I want a dignified expression, which will clearly distinguish this instrument from all other sound reproducing devices.

I have authorized that $10,000.00 in prizes be paid for the best ideas submitted.

(Signed) Thomas A. Edison

In Which Mr. Rohm Leaves It to Mr. McComb

Fort Wayne, Ind., Journal-Gazette.

Waterloo, Ind., June 2.—After reading the article by the manager of the Huntertown team in this morning's Journal-Gazette, I can not let it pass unanswered because the article is intended to give a black eye to a club that does not deserve it.

Mr. McComb says the umpire was so bad that he would not mention many of his decisions that were against them.

And as for a game on a neutral ground with an unbiased umpire, Mr. McComb can have a game for any Sunday after July 4, with the same players used last Sunday, if he wishes but I would advise him to get some ball players instead.

(Signed) E. E. ROHM.

MILTON.

Milton, June 1.—Memorial Day exercises were held in Woolsey's hall Monday afternoon, under the auspices of Ketcham Post, No. 495, G. A. R. The children from all the schools took a very active part. The exercises were opened with prayer by the Rev. J. Leadbeater, pastor of the M. E. Church. There were recitations, solos and chorus singing by the children. William C. DeWitt, postmaster at Kingston, gave a very interesting address, which was greatly enjoyed by all. Captain C. M. Woolsey had charge of the program for the afternoon. P. V. L. Purdy of St. Cloud, Fla., and a former resident and a member of the Ketcham Post, also gave a short address. Advance Lodge band of Marlborough furnished music for the afternoon. Much credit is due Captain C. M. Woolsey and Ketcham Post for giving our people the pleasure and entertainment, which these exercises give them every year. It has been through the efforts of Captain Woolsey for a number of years past that our people have been able to attend those interesting and entertaining meetings, besides giving the children a better and nobler idea of what patriotism means and why they should respect our flag. Much credit is due the children for the hearty, earnest and willing manner in which they help to make these Memorial Day exercises so entertaining and interesting.

ROTARY MEETS AT YAMA FARMS

Menu, Speakers and Entertainment a Little Out of the Ordinary—Telephone That Makes Whisper on Pacific Coast a Shout Here—Horner Negatively Defines Rotarian.

Kingston Rotarians and their guests, to the number of 93, dined at Yama Farms Wednesday evening, the menu ranging all the way from trout to strawberry short cake and the after-dinner program ranging, musically, from solos by Miss Virginia Los Kamp to chorus singing of "Lulu" and the Spider Song led by John H. Gregory, and oratorically from an address by Harlan Hoyt Horner, dean of the State College for Teachers, to an explanation by an unknown and concealed speaker who was demonstrating and trying out the telephone amplifying apparatus that is to be used next week when the officials of the Bell telephone system meet at Yama.

When the telephone men take possession of Yama next week the amplifyer the Rotarians heard on Wednesday night will be used to receive music and speeches made on the Pacific coast and send them out for all who are on the grounds to hear.

Dean Horner, who is ex-president of the Albany Rotary Club, devoted most of his address to the new generation of critics who are invading the press, the schools and the pulpit, as well as speaking from the soap box—the men whose real principle is "You work and earn bread while we eat it." He defended especially the schools, the courts and the church from critics who seem to think they should provide people with brains, morals and money without any effort on the part of the recipients.

At the close of Dean Horner's address Mrs. O. B. Sarre, manager of Yama Farms, spoke of the pleasure it had been to entertain the Rotarians. She said she had been requested to tell about her work, but beyond the fact that she worked from 6 o'clock in the morning and did anything that was required, from emptying garbage cans to greeting a president, she could not say much about her work. Speaking of her recent visit to Italy, Mrs. Sarre commended the direct action of the business men and former soldiers there who had grown tired of the vaporings of Bolshevists and Socialists and proceeded to raid their nests and kill off some of them who needed killing for the good of the world.

Miss Los Kamp, well known to Kingston lovers of vocal music, sang several selections, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Smith, and was heartily applauded and given a vote of thanks.

Dean Horner's definition of what a Rotarian is not is as follows:

HE is not an "it-can't-be-don-er." He is a "go-getter."

HE is not a sour-faced dyspeptic. He keeps his alimentary canal—the most dangerous highway known to commerce—literally and figuratively open to traffic. He believes in wholesome fun, and in the tonic of laughter and song.

HE does not have "Home, Sweet Home" in a knitted scroll over his mantel. But his home is a place of rest and comfort and good cheer and children's voices.

HE is not a masher, nor an ogler, nor a silly ass about a petticoat. He respects womanhood.

HE does not have a placard on his desk, "Honesty is the Best Policy." He does things on the square over the counter day in and day out.

HE is not soft, flabby, sentimental, half-baked. He is kind, charitable, sympathetic and wholly unashamed to exhibit genuine sentiment.

HE is not an icicle, nor a lemon, nor a grouch, nor one of that mongrel breed which sees its acquaintances only when it is convenient to do so. There is a look of friendliness in his eyes; he is cordial, approachable, human; he shakes hands like a he-man, not for convention's sake, but because he takes real pleasure in the experience.

HE is not a mollycoddle, nor a jellyfish, nor an acrobat who tries to carry water on both shoulders. He possesses that essential stuff of character — backbone; he can look any man in the face and tell him, if necessary, where he gets off, and, upon occasion, where he may go to.

HE is not a spendthrift, a boozefighter, a gambler, a loafer, nor a reckless ne'er-do-well. He lives just as well as he knows how, within his means, without display, temperately, sanely, safely; he works industriously for material success, but more for the invisible rewards of successful accomplishment; he condemns shiftlessness and believes that the world owes no sane, able-bodied man a living.

HE is not a lounge lizard, nor a Miss Nancy, nor a recluse. He believes in the open air and sunshine, in manly sport, in red blood and in earnest human endeavor.

HE does not sit on the side lines and cuss the umpire. He gets into the game, knocks a home run now and then and slides in safely to the home plate.

HE is not a paper patriot. He does not have to take any oath of allegiance. His daily life is an unmistakable manifestation of his allegiance. He knows but one national flag. There is no alloy in his Americanism.

HE does not whine about rotten politics, and corrupt courts, and bad government. He charges himself with his due share of civic responsibility; he wades in, calls a spade a spade, a liar a liar, a grafter a grafter, and plain dam fool a plain dam fool; he serves on a jury when he is summoned and he usually expedites justice; he rallies his fellows together when necessary and cleans out the bunch, regardless of party, who would appropriate the public purse in village, or city, or state, or nation for private ends.

HE does not simply remember that he was a boy. He tries to have some boy somewhere through his influence be actively conscious that he is to be a man.

HE radiates no goodey-goodey atmosphere; he is not a saint; there are no wings visibly sprouting upon his shoulders. Deep down in his inner and better nature, sometimes even hidden from everybody but himself, but existing 99 times in 100, there is a deep-seated, ineradicable belief in Divine Providence and an abiding faith in his Creator.

HE is not—any one of him—all of these things; but he is a practical idealist and he aims at his ideals while he keeps his feet upon the earth. He knows that we do not live in Utopia and he is content to make orderly progress toward the realization of his ideals. He knows that Rotary is more than better business, more than good fellowship, more than lip service about a motto.

PREGNANT WITH POSSIBILITIES!
Civilized man has long accepted the principle of monogamy, one wife for one husband. But the age-old predatory instinct lingers. The mind of man is still the Devil's Garden, in which ancient traits persist, struggle against them though he may.

See that theme dramatized by

Lionel Barrymore

—as William Dale, who heard his own wife's confession.
—who slew the man whose name she mentioned.
—and then felt the walls that checked his own predatory instincts crumble when that same temptation came to him.

LEWIS DUNCAN FATALLY HURT

When He Fell Between Cars at Kaaterskill Junction Wednesday, and Died That Night at Kingston City Hospital.

Lewis Duncan, a machinist at the Ulster & Delaware Railroad shops, was fatally injured late Wednesday when he was run over by a railroad car at Kaaterskill Junction. He was passing from one car to another as the train was making a switch at the Junction, and fell between the cars. He was hurried to Kingston, and the ambulance removed him to the Kingston City Hospital, where he died. He was badly mutilated.

Mr. Duncan resided at No. 84 Downs street, and had been an employe of the railroad for a number of years, and was held in high esteem. He with others had been employed in making certain repairs to the Tannersville station.

He is survived by his wife and one son, George Duncan, his mother, Mrs. Jane Duncan, and two brothers and three sisters.

The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 9:30 oclock from the late residence on Downs street and at 10 o'clock from St. Joseph's Church, where a solemn high Mass of requiem will be celebrated for the repose of his soul. The interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery. Mr. Duncan was a member of the Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's Church.

ALLIGERVILLE.

Alligerville, June 2.—Decoration Day passed off very pleasantly and quietly the only public gathering being the church supper in the hall.

Mildred and Millie Purcell, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. D. Purcell, celebrated their 16th birthday anniversary Saturday evening at their home.

Mrs. Pauline DeWitt and Mrs. Van Tyne of Utica were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. DeWitt over Decoration Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Tichler passed through the place Sunday with a party of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Tichler were summer boarders at the Terwilliger House for many years.

The Hebrew boarding houses are not filling up as rapidly as in former years.

Mrs. Chase and Violet Kloffer of Poughkeepsie spent Sunday at Jacob Steen's.

Arthur Schoonmaker and family of Jamaica spent Decoration Day with his mother, Mrs. Mary Schoonmaker.

Mrs. W. W. Brady is employed at the Trowbridge House in Kyserike.

Joe Van Wagonen and family of Briar Cliff were holiday guests of Jeremiah Young.

OLIVEREA.

Oliverea, June 2.—The usual large number of city guests were at the various boarding houses in Oliverea over Decoration Day.

Mrs. Ward Buley of Kingston visited her mother, Mrs. V. Knight, Sunday and Monday.

The summer schedule of mail service went into effect Wednesday. Oliverea will have two mails from Big Indian daily until the end of September.

There will be service in charge of the pastor at the M. E. Church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. B. H. Satterlee of Big Indian spent Sunday with friends here.

Mrs. George Thompson of Shandaken visited her sister, Mrs. Chester Jocelyn, in this place, the first of the week.

Norman W. Rikert was called to Rhinebeck Wednesday by the death of his brother.

OLIVE BRIDGE.

Olive Bridge, June 1.—By request "Bashful Mr. Bobbs" will be given at I. O. O. F. Hall Saturday evening, June 4, at 8 o'clock, standard time. Mrs. Wiggins, Obadiah Stump, and the city boarders will be there. Refreshments after entertainment.

Children's Day will be held June 11, at Tongore M. E. Church.

William Quick is a very busy man, hives a swarm of bees nearly every day.

Clifton A. C. Wins Again.

The Clifton A. C. defeated the Swamp Angels by the score of 14 to 9 on the Andrew street grounds on Wednesday evening. Joe Brown, of the Clifton A. C., knocked a home run with two men on bases. Batteries for the winners, Long and Connelly and for the Swamp Angels, Smith and Hinckley.

In their newly made home at 90 Pine street Emma Costello Romeyn of 183 Pearl street was married to Lorenzo Hunt, a retired contractor and builder of this city, by the Rev. O. A. Merchant, at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening. The ceremony was witnessed by about forty relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The house was profusely decorated with flowers. The bride was the recipient of many pretty and useful gifts. After congratulations refreshments were served and an enjoyable evening was spent by all. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt who will make their home at 90 Pine street have the heartiest best wishes from their many friends.

Andrews-Albrecht.

John Andrews of Niagara Falls and Miss Catherine E. Albrecht of No. 20 Staples street were united in marriage on Wednesday by the Rev. John P. Neumann of St. Peter's Church. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Laura C. Albrecht, while the best man was her brother, William J. Albrecht. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride. Music, both instrumental and vocal, was furnished by Robert and William Smith, and the house was artisticaly decorated for the occasion with cut flowers. Many costly and artistic gifts were received by the happy couple. Both Mr. and Mrs. Andrews are popular young folks and have the well wishes of a host of friends. They will reside in Niagara Falls.

FRENCH PLANE FLIES UPWARD

Government Has Officially Accepted New Machine.

HELICOPTER IS THE NAME

Experts Predict That in Two Years the New Airplane Will Be Practical Reality—Is Constructed of Series of Horizontal Planes Revolving in Opposite Directions—Inventor Was Arrested by French Police as a Spy During the War.

The French aviation world, governmental and private, is deeply absorbed at the present time in the rapid development of the recently invented helicopter, the airplane which is designed to rise straight up from the ground.

The French government after a careful investigation by a commission of experts, has officially accepted the machine and has set aside a substantial sum of money for the immediate improvement of the invention.

The Marquis R. Pateras Pescara of Argentina is credited by some airplane experts with having actually proved its practicability, but several Frenchmen, among whom is M. L. Filippi, have since constructed helicopters with as much success as Pescara. Experimental work now is going on near Paris at an army aviation field.

Reality in Two Years.

At the Aero club of France, where the helicopter is the chief topic of conversation, experts predict that within two years the new airplane will be a practical reality.

Considerable surprise was expressed by these same experts that the United States government had apparently not taken up the new machine, inasmuch as it may materially affect sea warfare.

The helicopter, described simply without attempt at technicalities, is a machine constructed of a series of horizontal planes revolving in opposite directions. On the Pescara machine, a base similar to that of a low-slung automobile is used.

On this is built two series of horizontal planes, each series composed of ten planes. The usual airplane motor starts the planes and the effect is to make the machine rise straight from the ground.

In the experimental work a small gas bag has been used for safety purposes, but the work is so far along that these bags are being abandoned.

Arrested as Spy.

Pescara is conducting experiments in Barcelona, Spain, where the French army commission has spent several weeks in observation. His career has been romantic. Employed in experimental laboratories of the Italian government before the war, Pescara came to Paris soon after the beginning of the war and continued his work under army supervision. He was credited with hundreds of inventions, among them a dirigible which flew over the enemy lines and dropped bombs at stated intervals.

Suddenly, at the height of Pescara's success, the French police arrested him as a spy, and he was kept in prison for several months. The French ministry of war protested his innocence and obtained his release on condition that he be deported. He left for Spain and soon began his helicopter experiments.

DAUGHTER OF POET HAS UNIQUE WEDDING

This is a wedding picture, although the garments are not the conventional ones worn on such occasions. The girl in the Indian wedding frock is Juanita, daughter of the famous poet, Joaquin Miller. She won't change her name now that she is a wife, for the bridegroom also is a Miller, Juan Miller, an artist. The Indian wedding was celebrated in the Miller home in California.

A Ferry Tale.

A Revere resident on his way home had just crossed the gang plank when he espied a sizable roll of bills under one of the seats. Stooping and picking it up, he murmured: "Ah, my good ferry has arrived at last."

SIGNALING USE FOR 'BLACK LIGHT' SEEN

War Department Experiments Promise Notable Contribution to Science of War.

An important contribution to the science of warfare is expected to result from experiments with "black light," or invisible light rays, now being conducted by War department experts, it was learned recently.

Maj. Gen. George O. Squier, chief signal officer of the army and radio expert of international repute, for months has been giving attention to the subject, and experiments he has conducted thus far have proved almost uniformly successful.

"Black light," the general explained, "is the name that has been given to light rays of greater wave length than those at the red end of the spectrum, or of lesser length than those at the violet end. The construction of the eye is such that these rays make no impression on the optic nerve, and they are therefore invisible under ordinary conditions. Nevertheless, they are generated by every candle, lamp or other source of light, and scientists have devised unquestionable methods of determining their presence.

The "black light" signaling system as now conceived may be likened to the ordinary heliograph used in the army, except that invisible light rays are used instead of the flash of sunlight, as projected by mirrors. The advantage in time of war of the invisible system, practically incapable of interception, over the heliograph, is obvious. A further advantage lies in the fact that, unlike the heliograph, the "black light" rays can be generated artificially and therefore are not subject to weather conditions.

WHALES SPORT IN SPRING

When They Dance Fishermen Know Season Is Nigh.

Capt. John Hovde, master of the schooner Dick, back at Seattle after a fishing cruise of 14 days, says that "the jumping salmon, the whales, the loons and the flocks of seagulls are as sure a sign of spring at sea as pussywillows and the daffodil are on land. But the whales are a bit too frisky for comfort. While we were homeward bound we sighted two big fellows off Cape Flattery having a regular circus. They were frisking about like a couple of colts and would leap far out of the water and fall on the waves with a great splash. They must have been between 40 and 50 feet long. Instead of diving into the water head first when they came out of the air the whales alight on their backs or sides like a hundred ton of bricks, tossing up a great swell. The two big fellows were dangerously near us while performing their antics; in fact, one came almost alongside to look us over."

Captain Hovde said the whales were the first he has seen this year. They were sighted about 70 miles southwest of Cape Flattery. The Dick brought a catch of 7,000 pounds of halibut and 2,000 pounds of cod.

JAPANESE WOMEN SEEK VOTE

Open Campaign for Ballot So as to Work for a Dry Nation.

A campaign for the acquisition of the ballot for Japanese women in order to effect the more fundamental aims of the Woman's Christian Temperance union in Japan was decided upon at the national conference of the W. C. T. U., in session at Tokyo.

A committee was appointed to study ways and means and to take steps toward affiliation with the International Woman Suffrage association. About 150 Japanese women from various parts of the empire were present.

Spurred on by the successful efforts of American women in attaining a regime of prohibition in their country, a number of prominent Japanese women are vigorously conducting a "dry" campaign there.

The most prominent figure in the movement is Mrs. Fumike Nishikawa, president of the organization known as "The New and True Woman's association." Its object is to promote the welfare of women in general, but its special activities at present are in the direction of prohibition.

QUITS MANSION FOR BARN

Member of English Commons Would Avert Danger of Revolution.

Austin Hopkinson, a member of the British house of commons, has just given to the local governing council of Hyde his mansion valued at $150,000, and he has gone to live in an old barn on what was once a part of his estate. He has taken this action because he believes that a manifestation of the spirit of self-sacrifice on the part of public servants would avert any danger of a revolution in England.

Mr. Hopkinson's other deeds of generosity include the disposal of his furniture to friends and the needy, partly by sale at bargain prices and partly by free gift.

During the war Hopkinson was an officer. He was discharged as unfit, but rejoined as a private.

Poppies as Memorial to Fallen Heroes.

A plan is on foot to have blood-red poppies from Flanders in every state of the Union as a memorial to the boys who fell in foreign fields. C. W. Mathews of the agricultural experiment station in Kentucky has received the first package of poppy seed from overseas.

Cuba's Varieties of Hardwood.

Cuba has about 387 varieties of excellent hardwoods. Besides mahogany and cedar, there are about thirty species of palm. The royal palm is probably the most useful tree on the island, every part from leaves to roots being utilized by natives.

Animals Fond of Fish.

The assertion by White of Selborne that all quadrupeds which feed on fish are amphibious is erroneous. No one would regard the dog as an amphibious animal, while as for the cat, it is well known to be the one quadruped above all others that hates even wetting its feet. Yet few, if any, quadrupeds are fonder of fish, though one that actually engages in fishing is no doubt a rarity among the feline tribe.—Exchange.

Speaking of custom, have you heard of the Harvard students who spied a pair with silver clasps in a Harvard Square shop window, and, thinking to raise a smile, at least, from the clerk at the counter, asked the price of a dog-collar, pointing at the same time to the silver-clasped garter? She turned, looked sweetly at the young men, and said: "We do not separate them for puppies, sir."—Boston Herald.

Argentine Strike Weakens.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Buenos Aires, June 2.—The vigorous military preparations of the Argentine government appeared today to have broken the backbone of the general strike movement. General labor conditions already have begun to improve. There are indications that the strong measures taken as a result of the labor troubles have given a severe setback to trade unionism in this country. The strike of harbor workers continued in force.

Mohonk Season Opens.

Lake Mohonk Weekly Bulletin makes its appearance this year with the issue of May 28. It announces that the Mohonk School has passed a most successful year, having more than doubled in size. Brown, rainbow and lake trout are making their appearance in the lake as a result of careful stocking and are being protected until they become more firmly established. In the meantime efforts are being made to catch out the bass and pickerel. A prosperous season at Mohonk seems assured.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, June 2.—Business continued quiet at the opening of the stock market today and there was little feature. Changes in prices were again mixed. U. S. Steel opened down ¼ point at 80. Crucible Steel declined ½ to 64½. Baldwin Locomotive was up ⅜ at 82⅞. Reading rose ½ to 72⅞. Northern Pacific dropped ⅜ to 71½ and Southern Pacific rose ¼ to 75½.

Republic dropped ½ to 55. Studebaker continued to be in on a large scale starting with a gain of ⅝ at 72⅝ and reacting to 72¼. Mexican Petroleum ranged from 149½ to 148¾ against 149¾ at the close yesterday.

The market was in a confused condition again today. Many issues being under pressure from bear sources and at the same time there was liquidation of speculative accounts in groups which have been impaired in their earning power by trade conditions, while other stocks were in vigorous demand and made substantial advances. A feature of the trading was the collapse of White Oil, which fell from 12 to 10½ on a single transaction and had a further loss of 3¾, against 12½ at the close yesterday. The sugar stocks were also under pressure, American Beet Sugar falling from 36¾ to 34¾ and American Sugar Refining sold down to 82.

The advance in call money rate to 8 per cent caused further unsettlement in the market situation in the afternoon when many issues sold at new low prices for the day. American Sugar Refining was one of the weakest features, selling down to 80½, the lowest price touched in a quarter of a century. Baldwin Locomotive dropped to 80⅛ and U. S. Steel sold off from 80½ to 79½.

The market closed unsettled today; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds unsettled.

India's Fighting Sports.

In no other country has so much attention been given to the preparing and training of beasts and birds for fighting as in India. Rams, buffaloes, elephants, rhinoceroses, camels, stallions and even the gazelle, which, although famed for its gentle nature, is a pretty pugnacious little chap when aroused, have been matched against one another for the entertainment of rajahs and their subjects. And as novelties a crocodile would be matched against a tiger and a serpent against a bear.

Capital's Famous Avenue.

For some years after Washington became the national capital, Pennsylvania avenue was an unkempt dirt roadway and at times well-nigh impassable, but when Thomas Jefferson became President he objected to the untidy road and the street was graded and put in fine condition at a cost of $14,000, for the expenditure of which Jefferson was roundly abused.

Many Do.

One way to "relieve congestion in the post office" is to let your correspondents' letters answer themselves—a method which has much to recommend it.

The Giant Geyser, Yellowstone.

BY GILBERT GROSVENOR,
President, the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.

The national parks of the United States, meccas for thousands of tourists this summer, contain more features of conspicuous grandeur than are accessible in all the other continents.

Leaving the masterful Mississippi valley and journeying westward, we soon enter the region of the national parks, of which there are nine of the first order: the Yellowstone national park, principally in Wyoming, the Glacier national park in Montana, the Rocky Mountain and Mesa Verde national parks in Colorado, the Crater Lake national park in Oregon, the Mount Rainier national park in Washington, the Yosemite and Sequoia national parks in California and the Grand Canyon park in Arizona, the scenic masterpiece of the world, officially dedicated in 1920. Each park has its own individuality, and each in its specialty excels.

Foremost in interest in the Yellowstone are the geysers, of which "Old Faithful" ranks first, not because of size, for the Giant is a Goliath beside it; not because of beauty, for there are others more beautiful; but because of fidelity. It never disappoints. It is so regular that it could almost serve as the nation's standard timepiece. Every 70 minutes "Old Faithful" shoots its great column of water heavenward. At each eruption it sends up into the air 1,500,000 gallons of water.

One writer has described the geyser basins "as laboratories and kitchens, in which, amid a thousand retorts and pots, we may see Nature at work as chemist or cook, cunningly compounding an infinite variety of mineral messes; cooking mountains, boiling and steaming flinty rocks to smooth paste and mush—yellow, brown, red, pink, lavender, gray and creamy white—making the most beautiful mud in the world, and distilling the most ethereal essences."

Glacier Park, Top of Continent.

The situation of Glacier national park is unique, in that it mothers streams which flow into three out of five of the earth's great oceans. It may well claim to be the top of the continent, for its rivers drain into Hudson bay and the Arctic ocean, into the Pacific, and through the Missouri and the Mississippi into the Atlantic.

The Glacier national park was made by the earth cracking in some far-distant time and one side thrusting up and overlapping the other. It has cliffs several thousand feet high, and more than sixty glaciers feed hundreds of lakes. One lake floats icebergs all summer. The scenery is truly Alpine.

Lake St. Mary's, Lake McDermott and Lake McDonald are the peers of any of the mountain lakes of Switzerland and Italy. This park covers an area of [illegible] square miles, and maintains such an excellent chain of chalets, hotels and trails that the tourist can see its many attractions in comfort.

The Rocky Mountain national park straddles the continental divide at a lofty height, with snow-capped mountains extending from end to end. This park is in the heart of the Rockies not far north of Denver, with Long's peak as its center. It was established by congressional enactment in 1915. Estes park, the gateway to this mountain playground, is a beautiful little valley town nestled at the foot of the ridge, and yet itself more than a mile and a half above sea-level. Long's peak is nearly three miles high, and has several neighbors that run it a close second.

Home of the Aborigines.

The Mesa Verde national park hides in its barren canyons the well-preserved ruins of a civilization which passed out of existence so many centuries ago that not even tradition recalls its people.

Here one may study the modes of life of the prehistoric American as they can be studied in few places. These aborigines had their civic center and they had some progressive ideas in city planning. Community life was the order of those times. One house had 200 rooms for family use and 22 for worship. Another one contained [illegible] other places.

Mount Rainier seems to keep perpetual guard over Seattle, Tacoma and Olympia. Anyone who has beheld its many moods, who has watched the ever-changing picture as varying lights have played upon its summit, who has coasted on its glacial rivers, can understand why the Indians called it "Tahoma—the mountain that was god."

Mt. Rainier has a glacier system exceeding in size that of any other single mountain within continental United States. From its summit and cirques 28 named and a number of unnamed rivers of ice pour slowly down its sides. These rivers of ice have carved on what was once a perfect cone 11 valleys through the solid rock. A bird's-eye view taken from above the mountain would show it to be covered by an enormous frozen octopus, stretching icy tentacles down among the rich gardens of wild flowers and through forests of fir and cedar.

Switzerland, the playground of Europe, visited annually (until 1915) by more than 100,000 Americans, cannot compare in attractiveness with the High Sierra of central California. Nothing in the Alps can rival the famous Yosemite valley, which is as unique as the Grand canyon. The view from the summit of Mt. Whitney surpasses that from any of the peaks of Switzerland.

Wonderful Birds and Flowers.

And then, as to birds and flowers, the High Sierras so excel the Alps that there is no comparison. Never will the writer forget the melodies of the birds and the luxuriance of the meadows passed in the marches from Redwood Meadow to Mineral King, and then up over Franklin Pass; the fields of blue, red, yellow, orange, white and purple flowers, all graceful and fragrant, or the divine dignity of the great Siberian plateau, nearly 11,000 feet above the sea, and yet carpeted from end to end with blue lupine and tiny flowers.

From the educational point of view, the High Sierras so surpass the Alps that again no comparison can be made. In one day's ascent we observed fauna and flora to see the equivalent of which on the Atlantic coast we would have to make a journey of perhaps 1,500 miles. When we started in the morning we were hearing birds that correspond to the latitude of Charleston, S. C.; in a few hours we had traveled northward to Newfoundland and Labrador, and then descended to camp amid feathered friends whose counterparts are found around the writer's farm near Washington, D. C. A day later we ascended Mt. Whitney, the highest peak in the United States, and had a glimpse of birds of the arctic zone.

Oldest of Living Things.

Within the boundaries of the Yosemite and Sequoia national parks tower the oldest of living things—the Sequoia gigantea.

It is an unusual experience to stand under these big trees, to gaze upon their stately proportions, to reflect upon the storms and stress they have survived, and to visualize the strange changes in human history that have taken place since they were seedlings. Long before Moses had led the Children of Israel out of Egypt, long before his brethren had carried back to their father Joseph's blood-stained coat of many colors, long even before the birth of the patriarch, whose children, and whose children's children to remotest generations the Most High promised to bless, even before the [illegible] pyramids had reared their heads on the banks of the Nile, long centuries before the hanging gardens of Babylon had been constructed, these trees had begun to grow.

Thousands of years the General Sherman tree has stood, offering its head to every passing thunder cloud; but so strong and sturdy is it that, like Ajax, it can defy the lightnings.

The wonders of the Yosemite national park are easily accessible via the Yosemite valley, where accommodations are found for every degree of income. Improved camps and excellent government trails enable the visitor to see the giant trees, water-wheels, and canyons, while the more adventurous who desire to ascend Mount Lyell and its magnificent neighbors will find entertainment in Tuolumne meadows, at the hospitable headquarters of the Sierra club, an organization of mountaineers who have revealed the Sierra to the world.

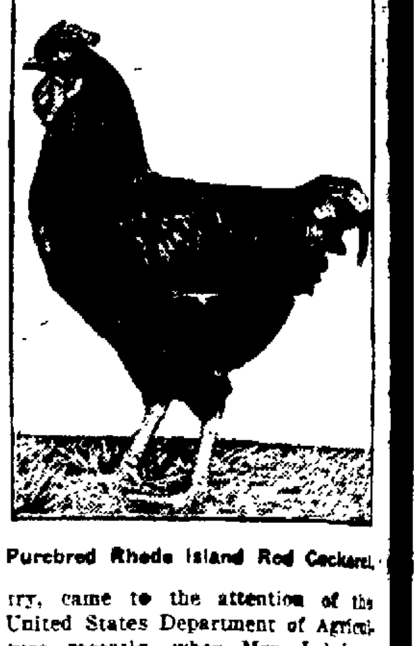
POULTRY CACKLES

BULLETINS AID WITH FOWLS

Noteworthy Success of District of Columbia Woman With Small Flock Attributed to Study.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One hen, a brood of 12 chickens, and a few farmers' bulletins on poultry raising were the foundation on which Mrs. M. Lohrberg, a resident of the District of Columbia, began her poultry operations in the spring of 1919. During the first 11 months of 1920 her flock of eight birds—the hen and seven pullets—laid 1,059 eggs, an average of about 132. During the same period she hatched from three settings of eggs 30 chickens, of which she raised 28.



Purebred Rhode Island Red Cockerel.

The noteworthy success with poultry, came to the attention of the United States Department of Agriculture recently, when Mrs. Lohrberg called for an additional supply of farmers' bulletins, explaining that owing to her success her neighbors had borrowed the bulletins which she had formerly obtained.

"I never kept any chickens before," she said, "and knew nothing about poultry raising until I got the first brood and also the bulletins."

Her chickens are Rhode Island Reds from good stock, and a standard-bred rooster is used. The flock is kept entirely under back-yard conditions in a space 30 by 50 feet, and the feed, costing about $1 a week, is supplemented by table scrapes. Based on retail prices, the estimated value of the 88 dozen eggs laid by this back-yard flock was about $62, but none were sold. A foondness for fresh eggs prompted the family to keep every one for family use. In addition, fried chicken and roast fowl graced the table frequently.

Acting on suggestions in Department of Agriculture literature, she is planning to "put down" in water-glass solution a good supply of eggs next season. Her poultry house is small, but scrupulous care in cleaning it out every day, combined with close personal attention to good feeding is responsible, she believes, for the absence of poultry diseases and ailments.

SANITARY HOUSES FOR HENS

To Secure Adequate Returns in Eggs and Growth Buildings Must Be Light and Ventilated.

Chickens will not give adequate returns in eggs or growth when kept under insanitary conditions, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. The construction of the poultry house should receive first attention. Sufficient air space, lighting and ventilation should be provided, and the entire house cleaned at frequent intervals.

While these precautions cannot be depended upon to control mites and lice, they aid the poultryman in determining when these pests are present. Furthermore, the fowls are kept in vigorous condition, which in itself aids in controlling pests. Dirty and insanitary houses provide ideal breeding conditions for insects and germs which are detrimental to poultry. Diseased fowls, or those with malformed bills or feet, fall ready prey to lice, mites and other insect pests and should be removed as soon as discovered.

DON'T FORCE BREEDING HENS

If Strong Healthy Chicks Are Desired Fowls Must Be Kept in Good Condition in Winter.

Many a breeder has fallen into the pit of forcing his breeders for winter eggs and then wonders how it is that the eggs don't hatch well in the spring. If you want strong healthy chicks and big hatches you will do well to keep your hens in good condition but not force them for heavy egg production.

ESSENTIALS OF EGG MAKING

Sprouted Oats or Steamed Clover and Meat Scrap Take Place of Bugs and Grass.

Laying hens need the elements of egg making that are found so freely in their summer ration—meat and grass. Both are vitally necessary in making hens lay, and can be supplied with but little trouble, in the form of meat scrap, and sprouted oats or steamed clover.

American Killed in Mexico.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mexico City, June 2.—The Mexican authorities today ordered a rigorous investigation of the assassination of Elmer Buchanan, an American, near Tamico, and stern punishment of the bandits responsible. Buchanan was employed on the ranch of A. M. Barkeley, ten miles north of Tampico. It is believed that other Americans were wounded.

SOLDIER BALL WAS A SUCCESS

Net returns so far received from the ball and entertainment held at the state armory recently to raise funds to care for convalescent soldiers at the home of Mrs. Elsie Knauth on Albany avenue this summer total $2,203, according to the reports made at a meeting of the committee held Wednesday evening.

The prize of $10 to be awarded to the girl selling the most tickets was won by Miss Viola Moore of The Huntington who asked that the prize be turned into the fund.

The committee audited bills to the amount of $21, which was stated to be the entire expense incurred in holding the ball and entertainment.

Professor W. W. Campbell, one of the most noted astronomers in America and director of Lick Observatory on Mt. Hamilton, Cal., announced that the comet Pons-Winnecke is due within sight of the earth during the latter part of June and may be accompanied by a display of shooting stars and a meteoric downpour. Professor Campbell says that the theory often expressed, that Pons-Winnecke will collide with the earth and cause disaster is entirely wrong. The comet at its nearest point to the earth will be millions of miles away. However, this will be the nearest the cyclonic traveller will have ever reached the earth, he says. And if it should at any future time, collide with the earth Professor Campbell expresses the belief that the sufferer would be Pons-Winnecke and not the earth.

SCHOOL NO. 5 WON FIRST GAME

Staging a rally in the final inning, the ball tossers of School No. 5 defeated the team of School No. 3 by a score of 5 to 3 in the first game of the series to decide the grammar school championship of the city at the Athletic Field Wednesday afternoon. The second game of the series will be staged at Hasbrouck Park, formerly McVey's Field, Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

School No. 3 obtained its three runs by scoring twice in the opening frame and again in the third stanza. School No. 5 went into the final stanza on the short end of a 3 to 0 score, but Williams, the star twirler of the down town school, developed a streak of wildness and the up town lads scored five runs on three walks, a brace of infield errors and a hit. The schools lined up as follows:

School No. 5—G. Meyers, c; Sammons, p; Keuhn, 1b; Schultz, 2b; Amer, ss; J. Meyers, 3b; Lindhurst, lf; Dixon, cf; Bruck, rf.

School No. 3—Stokes, ss; McDermott, ss; Leskie, 3b; Williams, p; Millens, 1b; Wood, cf; Kanzer, 2b; Rider, rf; Mufson, c.
